Review by Georgia Lee

Kaho'olawe: Nā Leo o Kanaloa is essentially a picture book accompanied by Hawaiian mele (chants) and mo'olelo (legends) that are filled with allusions and kaona (hidden meanings). Throughout the book these are presented in both Hawaiian and English and comprise most of the text. The photographs, 38 in color and 39 black and white, are excellent.

Today Kaho'olawe Island is bare, windswept and desolate the result of years of over-exploitation. It was ravaged by herds of wild goats in early historic times, and then became a target for the US Military which did its best to blow it up. The island is still off limits for all but a few, so this book represents an opportunity to see its stark beauty through the lens of some talented photographers. In 1994, the federal government returned control of the island to the Hawaiian people; it is being held in trust by the State of Hawai'i while the job of clearing the island of unexploded ordinance continues. The island is to become a natural and cultural preserve, and likely will never be opened up to the general public.

I have been one of the fortunate few to visit Kaho'olawe as a member of an archaeological field project and allowed to join the 'Ohana campsite at Hakioāwa, a memorable and meaningful experience. With that in mind, I found Kaho'olawe: Nā Leo o Kanaloa to be a lovely ramble down memory lane. But this book is not for everyone; those who know and love Hawai'i and things Hawaiian will enjoy it. It is long on impressions and images but short on actual information and history. That is to be the subject of a second book, to be published as a companion volume. We await that with anticipation.

Dig Rapa Nui

In October and November 1996, Earthwatch volunteers under the direction of Dr. Christopher M. Stevenson will conduct an 8th season of archaeological survey and excavation. The project area is located on the north coast of the island in the area known as La Pérouse. Volunteers will be involved in all aspects of the archaeological investigation and will be housed at the lovely Hotel O'tai in Hanga Roa village.

For a project briefing please contact:
Gretchen Bowder, Earthwatch, 680 Mount Auburn Street,
Watertown, MA 02272 Phone: 617-926-8200.

Easter Island's Rapanui Festival
with Dr. Georgia Lee

Join Georgia Lee for an exciting journey to Easter Island. Participants of the trip will spend a full week exploring the many spectacular archaeological sites. The itinerary includes the wonderful Tapati Festival, a celebration of the Rapa Nui culture. Each day will dawn with new and exciting contests of strength and skill, while evenings will bring the mesmerizing melodies of Polynesian music as dancers perform beneath the stars. It is a time of revelry and feasts, and of honoring the past with performances of song, chants, and the hypnotic kai-kai, used to hand down the island's history from generation to generation.
